General Employability

Successful businesses make certain they're hiring the right people for each job. That first step leads to increased productivity, reduced turnover, more engaged employees, and a better bottom line. The General Employability component of Hogan Select offers a streamlined, ready-to-go job screening solution that allows companies to quickly and easily determine the suitability of candidates for entry-level roles.

General Employability leverages a short intuitive assessment that takes candidates 10-12 minutes to complete. The single results page displays a graphical representation of three work characteristics and the candidate's overall suitability, along with a fit recommendation and brief notes for hiring managers. With this low-cost solution, you'll find the tools you'll need to ask probing interview questions, rank multiple candidates and make an informed hiring decision.
